National Severe Weather Warning Service

Chief Forecasters Assessment
After something of a thaw on Sunday, a deep low near Iceland will pull another cold, showery air mass southwards across the region. Showers will be largely of snow across the region, with accumulations of 2-4 cm above 200 m, 6 cm plus above 400 m, but partially melting on roads to bring an ice hazard.

The Met Office have issued a Yellow Warning of Ice

Valid from 03:00 on Mon, 15th Dec 2014 until 11:00 on Mon, 15th Dec 2014

Road surface temperatures will fall below zero in many parts as bands of showers move through, with snow settling above about 200 m. The public should be aware of the risk of ice and snow on roads.
